POSTAL TELEGRAPH.

Senator Hill Completes His Report to the Senate.

Injuries by Western Union Stock Watering.

Benefits Expected from a Government System.

Postal Telegraph.

WASHINGTON, May 22.—The report of the senate committee on post offices and post roads on the subject of postal telegraph has been completed by Senator Hill. It gives a summary of the history of the increase of debts, rentals and capital stock of the Western Union company and the value of its property, leased and otherwise, and says the capital stock, $80,000,000, has arisen nearly the whole of stock dividends and purchases made of lines of other companies which were paid for by issues of stock. It is evident, the report continues, that the prices which the Western Union paid on its stock for competing lines were vastly in excess of the cost or earning cost of the property acquired. It was claimed before the committee by the president of the Western Union that it had from time to time expended out of its current earnings considerable money on construction account, that is to say in addition to its lines and equipments over and above their maintenance. This may be true to some extent, but cannot be true to the extent of justifying the enormous stock dividends which the company has made, nor was the appropriation of current income to the construction account sufficient to prevent the payment of munificent cash dividends to shareholders, who received in that way from '67 to '83 both inclusive $34,000,000 in addition to stock dividends of $25,807,190 as paid by Western Union and its own stock does not furnish even an approximate idea of the actual cost of the lines which it has purchased from other companies, and representatives of the Western Union, which alone possesses the information have given no definite or detailed account of the amounts of money it has itself expended in the construction of lines. The committee have endeavored to ascertain what it would now cost to reproduce the lines equal in every respect to those which the Western Union has acquired. The committee estimate this would cost $24,500,000. The exact excess of the capitalization of the Western Union beyond the actual cost of its [illegible] and beyond what it would now cost to reproduce similar lines cannot be determined. That it is enormous is undisputed. The committee concluded that this excess of capitalization has worked great injury to the public in the way of increasing charges for the transmission of messages in order to maintain the present dividend upon the immense mass of watered stocks. For the purpose of relieving the country of the burden of charges for telegraphs which are too high, of making their charges more equal as between different localities and different classes of telegrams and of guarding against the mischief and danger of leaving the control of the telegraphic business of the country in the hands of a private company which enjoys a practical monopoly, the committee have reported the accompanying bill.

The report says that the constitutional right of the government to establish a postal telegraph is undoubted, and that there are obvious and sufficient answers to the objection that such a line will operate injuriously upon private telegraphs. The report asserts that the passage of the postal telegraph bill will reduce the average charge per telegram from thirty-nine cents to twenty-five cents immediately and to twenty cents in five years, and secure uniformity of charges irrespective of the amount of business in different places for telegrams to newspapers and to commercial news associations. It continues as follows: Under the present telegraphic system the possibility of a species of censorship which is one of the most alarming dangers which menace the country arises in two distinct ways, each of which requires separate consideration. The first is the power which the telegraph companies themselves have of manipulating news "for sinister purposes," and the second is the same power possessed by the associated press and other similar associations, not themselves owning telegraph lines but making special compacts for the transmission of telegrams over lines owned and managed by others. It will appear that the power of the telegraph company in this respect will be entirely taken away by the pending bill and that the power of the associated press and similar associations be greatly reduced. For purposes, the report says, of giving fabulous fortunes to its inside managers and their friends the Western Union need not send untrue market quotations. It has only to give true quotations a single hour or less in advance to those whom it means to favor and the work is effectually accomplished. No such power should be allowed to exist in this country. If no past abuses can be shown to have occurred, or even if it is believed there have been in fact no abuses of it the temptation to abuse it is enormous and will sooner or later prove irresistible. The bill will effectually take the power away from the Western Union or any other private telegraph company by the low rates which it secures to everybody and by still lower rates which it secures to commercial news associations. It has not yet been made the subject of a formal vote, but is given out for publication to-day as an expression of the views of the majority of the committee.

The Mexican Revolution.

GALVESTON, May 22.—A News' Laredo special says:—No confirmation can be had here of the reported revolutionary outbreak at Linares, Mexico. The only report that has reached here is to the effect that a great conflagration has prevailed at Linares. The Monterey Rivista, an influential journal, in an editorial upon the present state of affairs in Mexico, closes with this significant sentence: "It is the functional law of nationalities that excessive tyranny will sooner or later produce liberty. Do you understand our final destiny is to become Yankees."

The Markets.

NEW YORK, May 22.—Money easy 3 to 3½; closing 1½ to 2; prime paper 4 to 5¼; sterling exchange weak, 4.83½, demand 4.85½; governments lower; railways weaker; state securities dull. Share speculation was feverish and depressed to-day. The weak spots of the market were coalers, Union and Central Pacifics. New York Central broke from 96 to 58, Reading from 29⅝ to 25¼; Union Pacific dropped from 40⅝ at the close yesterday to 35¼ on a report that Charles Francis Adams in an interview in Chicago had stated that the company had not earned its dividend for the current quarter and that none would be paid. Bears sold stocks heavily on these reports. Late in the day the following was received at the Union Pacific office in this city: "The reports are out of whole cloth and without foundation. You can safely make such denial as you deem expedient of everything alleged to emanate from us."

[Signed] F. L. AMES.

Central Pacific dropped from 42¾ to 39¼ in sympathy. Pacific Mail was another weak spot. The general list was well supported in the first hour of business and a few shares showed an advance of ⅛ to ¾ per cent, but subsequent attacks on coalers and Pacific stocks weakened the whole market. In the last fifteen minutes of business a moderate buying movement set in and prices rallied ¼ to 1¼, Western Union Telegraph, Central Pacific, Northwestern, Reading and Jersey Central most prominent. The market left off quiet and firm, notwithstanding the announcement of the failure of E. H. Shaw. Compared with last night closing prices are ½ to 3½ lower, and Louisville and Nashville 1⅝ higher. Transactions 432,000.

The mining market was quiet and weaker, the only firm stocks having been Alice 2.90 to 2.95; and Belle Isle 55. California was weak at 08, Mexican 1.65, Union Consolidated 1.85, and fifty shares 1.70, Amie 06, and Chrysolite 77 to 78.

Church Meetings.

DETROIT, May 22. The American Baptist Publication society, having headquarters at Philadelphia, continued its meeting to-day. The church was thronged, fully 1500 delegates from all parts of the country being present. Officers elected for the coming year: John H. Dean, New York, president; vice presidents, Samuel Crosier, of Pennsylvania, J. E. Brown, of Georgia, Edward Goodman, of Maine, E. Morgan, of Connecticut; Rev. Benjamin Griffith, D. D., secretary. Receipts for the past year of the three departments, business, missionary and bible, surpass those of previous years. The grand total was $582,957, an increase of $61,038. Thirty-seven new publications were issued during the year. One hundred and seventy-eight missionaries have been in service the past year, distributed through 45 states and territories of the United States. Five hundred and seventy-nine Sunday schools have been organized.

PITTSBURG, May 22.—The general synod of the Reform Presbyterian church of North America convened here this morning. W. J. Smiley of Sparta, Illinois, was elected moderator.

Texas Floods.

GALVESTON, May 22.—A News Laredo special says: Heavy rains have visited this portion of Texas in the past two days. The Rio Grande is very high. Rain was badly needed in the country above and around Laredo.

GALVESTON, May 22. Special to the News from all portions of the state indicate the recent rain fall was one of the heaviest ever known in Texas. In a portion of the area it has never been surpassed within the history of the state. The damage to agricultural interests is very great. All railroads in the storm belt are inundated.

The Missing Broker.

WASHINGTON, May 22. No news has been received from Lovis, the missing broker. His affairs in New York are said to be in a very unpromising condition. All his property in this city has been attached and his office is in the hands of a deputy marshal. The large number of depositors, who were principally persons of limited means, forms the subject of a great deal of talk, as the facts gradually leak out.

Struck by Lightning.

TOLEDO, May 22.—This afternoon Mrs. Emma Pfann and Miss Tillie Fear, sisters, walking in the suburbs with a baby carriage containing two children, took refuge from a thunder storm under a tree by the roadside. A bolt of lightning struck the tree tearing it to pieces, killing Miss Fear. Mrs. Pfann had a shoe torn off and was severely shocked. The children were unhurt.

Through a Trestle.

PETROLIA, Pa., May 22.—A freight train of the Parker & Kansas City railroad went through a trestle near Kansas City this morning and was badly wrecked. Two men named Thompson and Cook were fatally injured.

THE NATIONAL CAPITAL.

Hewitt's Bill Considered by the Ways and Means.

English of Indiana Voted into the House.

Lobbying of Ex-Members Discussed in Connection.

Hewitt's Bill.

WASHINGTON, May 22.—The committee on ways and means began consideration of Hewitt's tariff bill confining consideration to that portion which explains the present tariff law. It was determined to communicate with the secretary of the treasury relative to the administration of the law proposed by the bill. Members of the committee express the opinion that no consideration will be given that portion of Hewitt's bill which relates to reduction of the tariff. They say a favorable report will probably be made on the portion the discussion of which began to-day.

Three Per Cents Called.

WASHINGTON, May 22.—Secretary Folger has issued the one hundred and twenty-eighth call for redemption of bonds, $10,000,000 three per cents, maturing June 30th.

Washington Notes.

The president has approved the bill granting a loan of a million to the New Orleans exposition.

The house committee on civil service reform unanimously directed a favorable report on the bill to repeal tenure of offices.

Postmaster General Gresham has ordered that all mail matter heretofore sent from New York, New Orleans and Galveston to Mexico by sea shall hereafter be sent via El Paso, Texas, over the Mexican Central railroad.

Senator Mitchell reported favorably to the senate from the committee on pensions with amendments a bill introduced by him early in the session providing for an amendment of the pensions laws in conformity with suggestions made by the commissioner of pensions in his last annual report.

XLVIII Congress.

HOUSE.

WASHINGTON, May 22.—Bills passed authorizing the construction of bridges across the Missouri at Rulo and Decatur, Nebraska.

The house resumed consideration of the English-Peelle contested election case. The motion to table the motion to reconsider the vote by which the house yesterday agreed to the minority resolution confirming Peelle to the right to his seat as substitute for a majority resolution was lost by a tie vote; yeas 132, nays 132. The question then recurred on the motion to reconsider, and it was agreed to; yeas 133, nays 120.

A motion to recommit to the committee on election with instructions to recount ballots cast for contestants and contestee in all the several voting precincts and make a report on the result was lost; yeas 134, nays 134.

Horr, rising to a question of privilege, said, "No ex-member of congress has the right to the floor if he takes and then abuses its privileges by attempting to influence legislation here. I now rise to say it has been brought to my notice by a democratic member of this house that an ex-member of congress who is father of one of the litigants in this case has been on the floor of the house soliciting members, sending for them, taking them into consultation and attempting to influence them in their votes on this case. If that be true it ought not to go unnoticed."

"I desire to say," replied Randall, "that the father of the contestant would be unnatural if he did not take the deepest interest in his son's contest, [applause on the democratic side and derisive laughter on the republican side], and I stand here a witness to the fact that the gentleman has exercised the most careful propriety in connection therewith." [Applause on the democratic side.]

"And I want to say further," broke in Blount, "that it is a notorious fact, known by all members on this floor, that this rule has been violated time and time again; that ex-members of congress in the employ of railroad companies and in other interests have been—here importuning members on this floor."

Springer made the point that the rule related to persons who were interested in things pending before congress. It had referred to a pecuniary interest, to hired attorneys coming on the floor and advocating the passage of a claim and it had never been assumed that it had any reference to a gentleman who came looking after the interests of a friend or relative in a contested election case.

Horr said, "I have made the statement, not for the purpose of a political clap-trap. If you don't believe what I tell you investigate this matter. I promise to prove a good deal more than I have stated. No man with a keen sense of honor would be found on this floor doing what he has been doing in this case."

White of Kentucky moved that the sergeant-at-arms be directed to arrest Hon. Wm. H. English and bring him to the bar of the house to show whether he has violated the privilege of the floor. This motion was received with laughter, and White subsequently withdrew it, stating that he did so at the request of the contestee.

Cox of New York then arose to defend his old friend, who had been insulted by the motion. He gave the origin of the rule regulating the admission of ex-members to the floor. He had originally drawn up the rule at a time when the republican party was rushing towards the very height of corruption and when ex-members came here to lobby for railroad grabs which the democratic party was now undertaking to forfeit. [Applause on the democratic side.]

Milliken—"Is there any higher claim or more sacred claim than the title of a member to his seat?"

Cox—"I would rather have a man come here undertaking to present the claims of his son honorably to the house than your mean, sneaking mercenaries that come here to grab and raid the public treasury."

Bayne offered a resolution instructing the committee on rules to inquire and report to the house whether or not Hon. William H. English, an ex-member of the house, has violated the privileges thereof in the contested election case of English vs. Peelle.

Holmtzell objecting, Bayne withdrew the resolution for the time being.

The question recurring on the minority resolution, it was lost; yeas 128, nays 129, and the majority resolution was adopted; yeas 130, nays 127.

English then appeared at the bar of the house and took the oath of office.

Bayne reoffered his resolution as a question of privilege.

Dunn suggested that it be amended by directing the inquiry as to whether Greenbaum, late a member of the house, had lobbied for the whisky bill.

Thompson hoped that no such amendment would be pressed.

Bayne said he offered his resolution because he had information that a member of this house had voted in the early part of the proceedings; that he had left his seat, consulted with English and thereafter disappeared from the floor without having been paired. Having that information he felt it to be right and just that inquiry should be made by a competent committee.

The member to whom Bayne makes reference is Weller, who voted on the first roll call to-day and did not do so thereafter.

Nicholls said James Wilson, ex member from Indiana and counsel for Peelle, had been on the floor lobbying in the interest of the latter.

Bayne modified his resolution by granting the committee power to send for persons and papers.

Hammond offered an amendment entrusting the investigation to a committee of seven members and requiring that it further inquire whether any ex-member, employed as agent or attorney in any contested election case or for railroad or other corporation having any claim pending, has during this session abused the privileges allowed him under rule 34, and report who they are and how they have abused the privileges granted them.

The amendment was agreed to and the resolution as amended adopted.

The bill forfeiting the Oregon Central land grant was taken up and Oates opposed the bill on the ground that it proposed to forfeit a portion of the grant which had been earned by the road.

George took the same view, and Cobb made an argument in support of the bill. In the course of his remarks he referred to the decision of the supreme court of Oregon in regard to the grant to the Oregon Central, and George asserted it was not the Oregon Central to which the bill related and intimated at the same time that Cobb was misleading the house. This aroused Cobb and he declared that he had in his possession a letter showing George to be a railroad attorney.

George entered a vigorous denial of this declaration, and defied Cobb to produce the letter.

Cobb said when the gentleman accused him of attempting to mislead the house, he was mistaken in his man.

George denied and claimed he had no intention of charging that Cobb was purposely misleading the house, but the fact remained that he was doing so.

Pending further debate the house adjourned.

SENATE.

By a vote of yeas 22, nays 29, the senate refused to reconsider the bill prohibiting the mailing of newspapers containing lottery advertisements, and it goes to the calendar.

A bill passed authorizing the construction of bridges across the Mississippi river at St. Paul.

Morgan, committee on foreign relations, submitted a proposed amendment to the consular and diplomatic bill appropriating $50,000 to enable the president to open commercial or diplomatic intercourse with the Congo country.

A bill was introduced providing for the payment of female nurses' services during the war.

On motion of Coke, a bill passed amending the act creating the northern judicial district of Texas, and providing for holding terms of court in the western judicial district of Texas at El Paso. It provides for holding terms of court twice a year at Brownsville, on the first Mondays of January and July; San Antonio, first Mondays of May and November; El Paso, first Mondays of April and October; and Austin, first Mondays of February and August. It also provides for the appointment of a deputy clerk at El Paso.

The senate took up a bill to prohibit mailing newspapers containing lottery advertisements. Vest objected to its consideration and the senate by a vote of 22 yeas and 20 nays decided not to consider the bill and it goes to the foot of the calendar.

Van Wyck submitted an amendment to be disposed of at the proper time extending the provisions of the lottery bill so as to prohibit mailing newspapers or other publications containing advertisements or notices of railroad, mining or other stocks of corporations by margins or puts and calls or any agency thereof, or any notice or reporter's statement of any such sales.

The Utah bill was laid aside and the senate resumed consideration of the labor statistics bill.

Van Wyck's proposed amendment to the labor bureau bill was read, providing that the chief of the bureau shall be identified with the laboring classes, etc.

Sherman suggested the substitution of the word department for bureau.

Blair adopted the suggestion and moved to make the title of the bill, "A bill to establish the department of labor."

Pending debate, adjourned.

Sudden Death.

ST. LOUIS, May 22.—Isaac M. Veitch, an old and well-known citizen, died suddenly at his office on Olive street this afternoon. Mr. Veitch was one of the best known Odd-Fellows in the country, having been G. P. sire of the supreme grand lodge of the world.

Short and Desperate.

ST. LOUIS, May 22.—Richardson, local agent of the Indianapolis & St. Louis railroad, committed suicide by shooting himself to-night. Discovery by a traveling auditor that he was six thousand dollars short to the company led to the act.

Railroad Wreckers Shot.

MEXICO via GALVESTON, May 22.—It is officially reported that train wreckers captured by government forces attempted to escape en route to Celay and all were killed. This makes ten wreckers shot.

GENERAL MATTERS.

Nebraska Democrats in Favor of the Old Ticket.

Hanlan Beats Laycock by Half a Length.

Butler Accepts.

NEW YORK, May 22. General Butler accepts the nomination of the national anti-monopoly organization for president of the United States. In his letter of acceptance he pledges himself in case of election to use every effort to carry out the reform principles of the convention's platform.

Nebraska Democrats.

LINCOLN, May 22.—The democratic state convention was called to order at 8 o'clock. An hour was spent over temporary organization which was finally effected by electing B. A. Hinman of Lincoln county chairman.

A platform was adopted calling for a revision of the tariff limited to the necessities and expenses of the government and so adjusted as to relieve articles of necessity at the expense of luxuries; expresses the belief that the democratic party of '84, if united, will hurl the republican party from power and reelect Samuel J. Tilden and Thomas A. Hendricks president and vice president.

A ballot for delegates at large resulted in the election of James E. Boyd, of Douglass county, J. Sterling Morton, of Otoe, W. H. Munger, of Dodge, Tobias Castor, of Salmi, all for Tilden.

Virginia Elections.

PETERSBURG, May 22.—The republican general ticket is elected. The republicans carried every ward in the city except one. United States Senator Mahone was serenaded.

RICHMOND, May 22. All the democratic city officers and members of the city council are elected. Only about one-fourth of the full vote was polled.

DANVILLE, Va., May 22.—The election passed off without disturbance. Democratic or white party nominees are elected, Capt. W. P. Graves beat J. H. Johnson the present incumbent for mayor. Governor Cameron came up this morning and remained till afternoon. He was pleased with the quiet and order. Mayor Johnson was hanged in effigy. There was a torchlight procession to-night.

Congressional Nominations.

INDIANAPOLIS, May 22. Democrats of the Fourth congressional district renominated Congressman Holman on the first ballot.

EMPORIA, Kan., May 22. At the republican convention of this, the Fourth congressional district, Congressman Ryan was nominated unanimously for re-election.

West Virginia Fusion.

WHEELING, W. Va., May 22. Greenbackers nominated Judge Edwin C. Maxwell, republican, for governor. They will fuse with republicans at the fall election.

Transcontinental Railways.

CHICAGO, May 22.—At the Transcontinental Railway association meeting to-day it was urged by the A., T. & S. F. that the Union Pacific could not deal fairly with both the members of the money pool and members of the tripartite association at the same time. It was finally decided however to continue the Transcontinental association and not form any money pool. The Union Pacific withdrew its notice of withdrawal therefrom which was to have gone into effect May 24. The Texas Pacific and Missouri Pacific were admitted to the association. Another meeting will be held to-morrow morning.

Behind the Bars.

NEW YORK, May 22.—Ferdinand Ward, after spending the day endeavoring to obtain $300,000 bail, was taken to the Ludlow street jail to-night and lodged in a cell there. He refused to see any person.

General Grant stated to-night that the rumor that U. S. Grant, Jr., had fled to Canada to escape arrest was wholly without foundation. Both his sons, the general says, were in town and intended to remain here. They had no money to make a trip to Canada if they wanted to go. He was very indignant that the report had been circulated.

The Fire Loss.

PITTSBURG, May 22. Fire destroyed the post office and all the stores in the village of Springeld, Fayette county. Loss [illegible]5,000.

MANHATTAN, Ks., May 22.—The Adams house and contents burned; loss $[illegible]000. The servants barely escaped by ladders from the third story.

Wage Troubles.

PITTSBURG, May 22. The conference of the amalgamated association and manufacturers' committees this afternoon resulted in a continuance of the dead-lock. The workmen offered an important concession, but refused to accept a reduction.

A HUGE SERPENT.

A Subterranean Serpent that Lives Under Crested Butte.

The Crested Butte Gazette says that a few days ago a hunter known as "Uncle Bob Giddings" started up Slate river to interview a den of bears known to exist on the mountain side, some distance above Cloud City. Just after passing Cloud he came upon a trail in the snow which appeared to be from ten to fifteen feet in depth. The trail was as wide as though an ox had been dragged sideways, and the snow was pressed so hard that a pony could easily have been driven over it. Bob threw away his snow shoes and followed this trail, which led along the mountain side in a northerly direction. Reaching the ruins of the bear den, he found nothing but the bones of the bears left. While he stood in blank amazement, his eye was directed to the valley beneath, where he saw a huge serpent making its way down Slate river, until it disappeared in a fathomless lake near the ranch of Frank Nichols, some three miles from here. The terror-stricken man, on his return to town, told me that the snake was all of fifty feet long; its propelling power seemed to exist in its tail, which streamed behind several feet."

The Gazette says that there is an old Indian tradition about this serpent, and that an old Indian belonging to the Uncompahgre Ute nation, in speaking about this monster sea-serpent, described it as having a neck fully ten feet long, and as large around as the body of a pony, its head the size of a tepee, and eyes like saucers, about one yard and a half apart. It lives in a subterranean passage, which has an entrance in an unexplored part of Dark Canon, on the opposite side of the range. This passage runs directly under Poverty Gulch and Cloud City, connecting with the Nichols lake at a great depth from the surface. It is fully twelve miles in length. The Indians said the monster never makes appearance on land except in winter, and upon deep snows. During the summer months it remains near the entrance to the passage into the lake, and preys upon stock and game that come for water.

It is said by the aborigines that this channel contains great wealth, and that it was the custom in days gone by, that when an Indian was sentenced to death, he had the preference to descend into this channel and procure his weight in gold, which was a ransom for his life, or die by torture at the hands of his people. It may be added that the editor of the Gazette was not a member of the late prohibition convention.

G. A. R.

Regular Meeting of the Colorado Springs Post.

A regular meeting of Colorado Springs Post No. 22 was held at the G. A. R. rooms on Huerfano street last night. There was not only a large turn out of the members of the post but there was also present General Byron L. Carr, commander of the department of Colorado, Col. W. C. Gibbons of his staff and about ten members of Pike's Peak post of Manitou. Considerable discussion was had over holding of the annual state encampment here this summer, but as the deliberations of the meeting were private we cannot give them in full. There was, however, some diversity of opinion as to whether the encampment should be held in Colorado Springs, in the Garden of the Gods or at Manitou. A committee composed of J. L. Rand, M. W. [illegible], L. C. Dana, L. E. Sherman and F. B. Wells was appointed to look into the matter and determine upon the time for holding the encampment. At the close of the meeting all present adjourned to Mrs. Kennedy's restaurant, where a banquet was served, about fifty being provided with seats at the table. An hour or more after supper was given to social enjoyment, in the singing of patriotic airs, relating anecdotes and war experiences. Colonel Gibbons made a neat little off-handed speech, followed by the recitation of a touching war poem.

John Kelly of New York who has been such a bitter opponent of Tilden is now for the old ticket His reason is that Tilden if elected would soon die This would make Hendricks president and Hendricks is the especial favorite of Kelly This makes Tilden reasonably sure of polling the solid democratic vote of the New York democracy

A California delegation visited Tilden at his home and the following is a report by one of the visitors

"Governor Tilden received the party with great cordiality, and the interview lasted nearly one hour While it is true that one of his arms is afflicted his general health is remarkably good, not to say robust The governor threw back the heavy folding doors in the presence of his visitors and moved about with as much activity as a man of forty. His mind is as strong and clear as ever before in his life As to his ability to stand fatigue and the excitement of the campaign, I think his chances in that direction would be as good as those of any other man of usual age The only reference made to politics was when a member of the delegation addressing Tilden, said 'Governor, we are all your friends, we are all Tilden men, as are all democrats on the Pacific coast'

"In reply, the governor said 'I am not a Tilden man,' which was construed by some visitors as a declaration he would not be a candidate for the presidency For my own part I left Tilden in the firm conviction, judging from all the surroundings, that he will gladly accept the nomination if tendered him by the Chicago convention I may be mistaken about it but I certainly came away with that conviction

This reads like the literary bureau contributions, Tilden appearing like a hale, active man of 40 is a little too much to believe, however.

It is very evident that Tilden can be renominated if he will accept the nomination. The popular feeling in favor of Mr Tilden in the democratic party is an anomaly in politics He was a strong candidate in 1876 for two reasons. There had been a good many scandals during Grant's administration and there was a general sentiment in favor of reform which independent voters were foolishly inclined to think could be brought about only by a change of parties in power Tilden as governor of New York had made a good reform record and stood well as the head of a reform ticket But the times have changed and there is no desire to overthrow the republican party in the interest of reform Such an issue could be of little value in this campaign. It would not create any enthusiasm Besides if it were, Mr Tilden would not be the man to put at the head of a reform ticket. In general estimation he does not rank high as a reformer now In 1876 it was shown he made most of his money by railroad wrecking and this is the worst reputation a man can now have He ranks with Gould and Sage in his railroad operations The cypher dispatches also greatly injured him They showed conclusively that he was an accomplice of an attempt to corrupt voters These two things will take from all the independent vote of the country He neither stands high as a man or a politician No independent vote would go to him in case the republican national convention puts up a moderately good man The democrats with him must fight a defensive campaign from the beginning, and they can not afford to do this The feeling in his favor in the democratic party is only a sentiment. They think they won once with him and can do so again. But there is no ground for this hope now.

Henry W. Oliver was a member of the tariff commission of 1882 He has severely criticised Mr Hewitt's tariff bill In answer Mr Hewitt has written the following letter that contains some very ugly questions

WASHINGTON, May 16, 1884 —Henry W Oliver, Jr —Dear Sir I have read your letter of the 15th instant with pleasure and profit, but as you have overlooked a few points I will, with your permission, endeavor to supply the omission in the brief interval allowed me from arduous congressional duties

I beg leave to inquire

First—What was the duty recommended by the Oliver commission (p 27) on wire rods barbed wire, etc., well known specialties of Oliver Brothers and Phillips

Second—How does it occur that under the operation of the Oliver tariff you have been enabled to purchase two new wire mills, one blast furnace and a partnership in the Hartman mill, while other mills are content with the old fashioned 10 per cent '

Third—How does it occur that under the benign operations of the Oliver tariff the mills of Oliver Brothers in Pittsburg are enabled to run the whole year, while other mills run on an average but four months in the year'

Fourth—Now that you are operating blast furnaces, will you inform the public whether you hold the same view on raw materials you did (p 127) when on the tariff commission, and if not, why not?

Fifth—Will you kindly inform an anxious public how many of your $1.15 per day employes enjoy the benefits of the Oliver tariff

I would suggest that so far as wire rods, barbed wire, etc, are concerned, the Oliver tariff might be appropriately termed "a bill for the relief of Oliver Bros and Phillips."

Very respectfully yours,
ABRAM S HEWITT

Lincoln's First Meeting with Stanton

W M Dickson, in Harper's Magazine for June

—In the summer of 1857 Mr Lincoln made his first visit to Cincinnati He was original counsel for the defendant in a patent reaper suit pending in the United States circuit court for northern Illinois The argument of the case was adjourned to Cincinnati, the home of Judge McLean, at his suggestion and for his accommodation.

Mr. Lincoln came to the city a few days before the argument took place, and remained during his stay at the house of a friend The case was one of large importance pecuniarily, and in the law questions involved Reverdy Johnson represented the plaintiff. Mr. Lincoln had prepared himself with the greatest care, his ambition was up to speak in the case, and to measure swords with the renowned lawyer from Baltimore It was understood between his client and himself before his coming that Mr Harding, of Philadelphia, was to be associated with him in the case, and was to make the "mechanical argument" Mr. Lincoln was a little surprised and annoyed, after reaching here, to learn that his client had also associated with him Mr Edwin M. Stanton, of Pittsburg, and a lawyer of our own bar, the reason assigned being that the importance of the case required a man of the experience and power of Mr Stanton to meet Mr Johnson. The Cincinnati lawyer was appointed "for his local influence" The reasons did not remove the slight conveyed in the employment, without consultation with him, of this additional counsel He keenly felt it, but acquiesced The trial of the case came on, the counsel for defense met each morning for consultation On one of these occasions one of the counsel moved that only two of them should speak in the case. This motion was acquiesced in It had always been understood that Mr. Harding was to speak to explain the mechanism of the reapers So this motion excluded either Mr. Lincoln or Mr Stanton from speaking—which? By the custom of the bar, as between counsel of equal standing, and in the absence of any action of the client, the original counsel speaks By this rule Mr. Lincoln had precedence Mr Stanton suggested to Mr Lincoln to make the speech Mr. Lincoln answered, "No, do you speak" Mr. Stanton promptly replied, "I will," and, taking up his hat, said he would go and make preparation Mr. Lincoln acquiesced in this, but was deeply grieved and mortified, he took but little more interest in the case, though remaining until the conclusion of the trial He seemed to be greatly depressed, and gave evidence of that tendency to melancholy which so marked his character. His parting on leaving the city can not be forgotten Cordially shaking the hand of his hostess, he said "You have made my stay here most agreeable, and I am a thousand times obliged to you, but in reply to your request for me to come again, I must say to you I never expect to be in Cincinnati again I have nothing against the city, but things have so happened here as to make it undesirable for me ever to return here"

Thus untowardly met the first time Mr Lincoln and Mr. Stanton Little did either then suspect that they were to meet again on a larger theatre, to become the chief actors in a great historical epoch.

Rochefort and Cassagnac at the Trial of Pierre Bonaparte

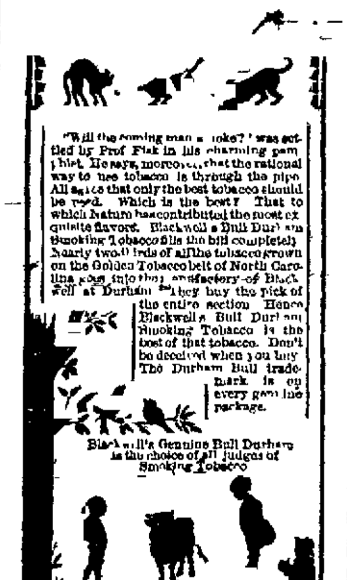
A C'Shea, in Tinsley's Magazine

When Rochefort was summoned the prisoner who had never met him in the flesh, leaned forward, anxious to see his pet antipathy, and seemed somewhat surprised as he measured the pamphleteer from head to foot. The scrutiny over, he resumed his attitude of affected tranquillity, with a look which apparently meant, 'This Rochefort is not the rowdy type I expected, but he would stand poor chance against me, rapier to rapier" The irrepressible Henri was essenced and gloved, and scrupulously attired in black, he might have been lifted delicately out of a band box, so painfully trim and neat he was, not a speck or a crease in his clothes He never once turned his gaze toward the dock When he had finished his evidence he made a courtly inclination, retired, and was told he might stop among the auditory during the rest of the day's hearing, as he might be wanted again The journalist made room for him, and by chance he took a seat but one remove from me A pretty nosegay was passed to me, with a request that I would hand it to M Rochefort, and convey to him that it was sent him by a lady He bowed, sniffed it, and paused a moment, as if searching for an epigram, but the epigram was not to be picked up, "Thanks," he said "kindly tell madam that from a gentleman it would have been equally acceptable ' This was clearly not what he meant to say He intended to utter some well turned phrase of gallantry but the atmosphere of the high court and the ordeal he had passed through were not favorable to the ready manufacture of happy impromptus 'Perhaps, M le Comte,' I artlessly remarked "you would prefer a bunch of violets" M le Comte looked at me sharply, as if to recall who I was, but, failing to recognize me, he shook his head and his face broadened into a winning smile, Paul de Cassagnac created the greatest interest after Rochefort among the provincial spectators There was a flutter of excitement under the corsets of the ladies —they were to be seen there as they are to be seen, to their shame, in the Old Bailey when sensational murder trials are on, silks rustled as they rose in their seats, and there was a faint murmur of whispered words, mingled with the froufrou of flounces, as they craned forward to catch a better view of the hero of two score duels There is nothing which wields such a potent sway over the gentle sex as a well nourished repute as a swashbuckler who habitually eats fire and quenches his thirst in copious draughts of blood. The redoubtable Paul strode in with his cavalry swagger and all the easy serenity begotten of good looks and a wrist like a steel spring My faith! he did look like a fine animal, tall, well-shaped, and well set-up, a picture d'Artagnan and he knew it, as he moved forward amid the murmured homage of those silly women As he reached the witness stand he nodded to the prisoner, who returned him a glance of pleased intelligence, I really forget to what he was called to testify, but I rather fancy it was to prove that the poor prince was a deeply injured individual, and the meekest and sweetest tempered being in the universe

Moll Davis of the Dragoons

London Society

She joined the Second Scots Grays, then Lord Hay's dragoons, and in 1695 was present at the siege of Namur After the peace of Ryswick the regiment was reduced, and she received her discharge Making her way to Dublin, she found that none of her friends recognized her, and, being unable to support, did not claim, her children or make herself known On the rebreaking out of the war she re-enlisted in her old dragoon corps and fought at Nimeguen, at the siege of Venloo, and at Liege. In the second attack at Schellenburg she was shot in the hip, but the ball was never extracted While she was in hospital her sex was more than once in great danger of discovery. After the battle of Blenheim, being appointed guard over some prisoners, for the first time since her departure from Dublin, she saw her husband—making love to a Dutchwoman! She found he was serving in Orkney's regiment and made herself known to him reproaching him with faithlessness, but freely forgiving him and telling his comrades that she was his brother. On the termination of the war she gave him a piece of gold, and, declining to resume her character as a woman and a wife, bade him adieu An odd incident in her career was her being compelled to pay for the support of an infant of which she was pronounced the father! In Holland more than one girl fell in love with the "pretty dragoon' as her comrades called her At last, at the battle of Ramillies, and just at its close, her skull being fractured by a ball, her sex was discovered She was trepanned, and in ten weeks had recovered, but she was not allowed to resume her male costume. Lord John Hay promised that she should never want. Brigadier Preston bought her hand some silk gown She was induced to receive her husband back, the marriage ceremony was re enacted, and all the officers of her regiment were present at a very merry, frolic some wedding feast, every man present laughingly giving a kiss to the martial bride, and the old practice of 'throwing the stocking" was not omitted.



"Will the coming man smoke?" was settled by Prof Fisk in his charming pamphlet. He says, moreover, that the rational way to use tobacco is through the pipe. All agree that only the best tobacco should be used. Which is the best? That to which Nature has contributed the most exquisite flavors. Blackwell's Bull Durham Smoking Tobacco fills the bill completely. Nearly two-thirds of all the tobacco grown on the Golden Tobacco belt of North Carolina goes into the manufactory of Blackwell at Durham They buy the pick of the entire section Hence Blackwell's Bull Durham Smoking Tobacco is the best of that tobacco. Don't be deceived when you buy. The Durham Bull trade-mark is on every genuine package.

Blackwell's Genuine Bull Durham is the choice of all judges of Smoking Tobacco

WOLFF'S GREAT RIDE.

How a Colorado Springs Operator Prevented a Terrible Accident.

"You may think that I am talking buncombe," said Ed. Wolff, the Western Union operator last night just as that always welcome word "thirty" came over the wire, and he jumped up from his chair much relieved to think that his arduous duties for the night were ended. "But what think you of this white hair which I have had for four years? It looks strange to one unaware of its origin, and when I call to mind the circumstances that caused it I only wonder that I am alive to-day."

The speaker, still in the prime of life in appearance, save for his white hair, stood with his right index finger and thumb grasping the key of a telegraph instrument which had just ticked off to him.

"I have had some trying experiences in my life as an operator. Four years ago I was telegraph operator at a small country station on a southwestern railroad. I had little to do, the dispatches sent and received not averaging more than two a day, and those confined almost to railroad matters. To enable me to leave the office at will I had attached a large tin cup to the sounder of my instrument so I could hear my call 'Q' from any part of the village. When the south-bound train arrived at noon one Saturday I hurriedly communicated with the conductor, and learning that he had nothing to send, I prepared to quit my office for the afternoon, as no other train was due until 7 o'clock. Locking the door I went away, leaving the train standing at the depot, hot boxes detaining it longer than usual. Luckily I did not go beyond ear-shot of my instrument, repairing to a field near by to witness a base ball game. I frequently left the office for hours, but always kept within hearing distance, the tin cup sounder enabling me to distinguish my call several hundred feet away. Somehow I had misgivings on this occasion. I had an indefinable dread of some impending trouble. I was so ill at ease that I took little interest in the game. I kept my ears open, expecting, for some reason I will not attempt to explain, to be called to the office. Before I had been absent ten minutes, and while the train still stood at the depot, I heard my familiar call repeated in what seemed to me unusually rapid succession. Instead of walking leisurely to the office, as was my wont, I ran to the office as fast as I could, and heard as I entered: 'Hold No. 4 at your station until special going north passes.'

"Involuntarily I glanced out of the window, and saw the train I was ordered to hold disappearing around a curve a short distance away. I was not told at what time the special left the station south, which was only ten miles away, and I saw in my mind's eye the two trains rapidly approaching each other, quickly followed by a crash, screams of pain, and flying debris. Suddenly I remembered, while tearing my hair and cursing my negligence, that No. 4 had to stop at a woodyard two miles down the road to take on fuel. That would be a matter of five minutes, and if means of conveyance were at hand I might overtake it and avert a disaster. My first thought was a hand car, my second a horse, but I did not know if the first was at the station or the second was to be had in the village. Rushing out of the office I stumbled over my bicycle. Without a moment's thought I shoved it out of the door before me and was on it in less time than it takes to count ten. In my odd moments I had practiced and had become quite an expert bicyclist. The country road paralleled the railroad for several miles and the former was down grade the entire distance. I put my whole strength into the effort of propelling the machine, and had the satisfaction of attaining a speed I had never accomplished before. My hat blew off and my coat was doffed through fear that it would retard my speed. I got within perhaps fifty yards of the now stationary train when the engine whistle blew and the train started up. I redoubled my efforts and came alongside of the last car just as the train was getting under full headway. With a falling side motion I threw my wheel against the side of the car just forward of the platform, and grasped the hand-rail as it came in reach, at the same time letting go my hold on the bicycle. I caught the bell-cord and gave it one vigorous pull, and as the train came to a halt I gave the cord three jerks, the signal to back, and fainted. The conductor found me where I had fallen. Suspecting something wrong, he permitted the train to back to the station, getting there just as the special, loaded with the directors of the road and their families, swept around the curve into the station. I had brain fever and came near dying, not regaining my reasoning faculties for five weeks after my terrible experience. But the conductor said my hair was white when he found me on the rear of his train."

A White Elephant Holiday.

Big elephants and small elephants, short elephants and long elephants have all had a great part to play in the circus world, but W. W. Cole has come to the front with a sacred white elephant, or more properly speaking, a white faced elephant for such is the description of the sacred Burmese beast that Cole imported to this country at an expense of $100,000, all told. But a single elephant be it white, blue or black, cuts a very small figure in Cole's colossal show which contains almost everything that has an existence on that curious humanity cares to see. The circus is so large that it takes three rings and an elevated stage to give all the performers a chance to display their various acts and personal accomplishments. The only fault to be found with this truly enormous show is that it is too big. Forty-five acts are given at every performance. It combines a circus, menagerie, theatre, roller skating rink, gallery of wax statuary and a dozen other complete exhibitions all in one. Performances are given in the menagerie tents of which there are two—as well as in the circus rings. A troupe of Bedouin Arabs is a principal feature of the great combination; a human fly, a lady ceiling walker, aerial bicyclists, roller skaters, Roman gladiators, rival riders, wrestlers, gymnasts, leapers, and a hundred other specialists will strive for supremacy. A white hippopotamus, a two-horned rhinoceros and Samson, the largest elephant in captivity, are among the rare animal curiosities. Seven sisters, with hair fully seven feet long, are attractions to excite feminine jealousy and fire the hearts of our male population. All kinds of trained animals are introduced and performed. One of the most laughable features of the great show is a learned racing pig, ridden by a monkey jockey, who "makes rice of my vile hold" to catch the pig by the tail when there is a possibility of the Darwinian Dude's losing his balance or being dismounted. With such an array of novelties it is impossible to class Cole's mammoth show under any other heading except a "White Elephant Holiday," and the day in Colorado Springs is set for Monday, June 2d, at which time the features above named will be presented, together with enough other material to outrank any three shows that have heretofore existed.

A Cowboy's Freak.

GALVESTON, May 22.—A News Vernon, Texas, special says: A cowboy rode into a ranch near here yesterday and without warning shot three times into beds occupied by his comrades, killing one instantly, another dying a few hours after. The murderer was arrested and jailed. He claims the shooting was accidental. Lynching is probable.

Election for Bishop.

OMAHA, May 22.—At the council of the Protestant Episcopal diocese of Nebraska an informal ballot for successor to the late Bishop Clarkson Rev. Dr. Worthington of Detroit received seven, Rev. E. S. Thomas of St. Paul five, Bishop Walker of the northern Dakota missionary jurisdiction five, Rev. Dr. Morrison of Ogdensburg, N. Y., one.

Steamship Disasters.

LONDON, May 22.—The steamer Castalia, Palmero for New York, grounded off Denia, Spain, and jettisoned part of her cargo. Rough weather prevents assistance. The British ship Syria was wrecked off Fiji Islands and seventy passengers drowned.

The New Cable.

ROCKPORT, Mass., May 22.—The celebration in honor of the arrival of the new cable wound up this evening by a banquet at Haskin's hall, given by citizens of Rockport, which was attended by many prominent citizens and invited guests.

Foul Play.

MINNEAPOLIS, May 22.—The Journal's Winnipeg special says: The body of a wealthy Englishman named Folkbridge was found in bed at a hotel here to-day under circumstances indicating murder.

Jas. R. Osgood & Co.'s
ANNOUNCEMENTS OF
NEW BOOKS
TO BE
Published During the Spring of 1884.

The prices named below are subject to revision on publication.

OSGOOD'S COMPLETE POCKET-GUIDE TO EUROPE. Revised and enlarged edition of 1884. With new and complete alphabetical dictionary of European summer resorts and health resorts, with distances and fares from Paris. 1 vol. 32mo. With six maps. Price $1.50.

AT DAYBREAK. A novel. 16mo. Price, $1.25.

A graceful, idyllic, well-written story of two Danish-American families of a new type. The plot is good, with many fine situations, the interest is sustained to the end, and the story as a whole has both power and freshness.

OVER THE BORDER. By Miss E. B. Chase. 1 vol. 12mo. Illustrated with Heliotype Engravings from original drawings. Price, $1.25.

A charming description of recent summer travel in Nova Scotia, with piquant sketches of life and manners in Acadia, the land of Evangeline, and descriptions of the grand scenery and singular people about the Basin of Minas.

A MIDSUMMER MADNESS. By Mrs. Ellen Kirk. 1 vol. 16mo. Price, $1.25.

A capital novel, by one of the foremost American story writers, full of bright epigram, and abounding in interesting situations.

THREE VILLAGES. By Wm. D. Howells. 1 vol. 16mo. Little Classic size. Price, $1.25.

In this pleasant record of close and kindly observation, Mr. Howells gives descriptions and reminiscences of three peculiarly interesting American communities and their people, making rare and delightful pen sketches, as dainty and delicate as his "Venetian Days" and "Italian Journeys."

SONG AND STORY. By Edgar Fawcett. 1 vol. 12mo. Price, $1.50.

The chief poem in "Song and Story" is entitled "Alan Eliot," and narrates in blank verse the history of a secret fratricidal crime, followed by its revelation while the murderer is in a state of somnambulism. "Alan Eliot" is in many respects Mr. Fawcett's strongest and most dramatic poem. Other poems in the volume are "The Republic," (an ode read at Harvard college by its author in 1880 before the Phi Beta Kappa Society). "The Rivers," (a long lyrical piece read in the previous year before the Alpha Delta Phi Society of Yale at Chickering hall), and various other poems printed at different times in the magazines and journals. It is now six years since Mr. Fawcett published his last book of poems, "Fantasy and Passion."

AN AVERAGE MAN. By Robert Grant, author of "Confessions of a Frivolous Girl," "The Lambs," etc. 1 vol. 12mo. Price, $1.50.

"A sparkling bright thing," it is pronounced by a well-known critic. A success is predicted for this vivid realistic story, not inferior to that which welcomed "The Confessions of a Frivolous Girl."

MINGO, AND OTHER SKETCHES IN BLACK AND WHITE. By Joel Chandler Harris. 1 vol. 16mo. Price, $1.25.

Another series of southern stories and sketches by the author of "Nights with Uncle Remus," whose admirable portrayals of negro life and thought, legends and superstitions, have won profound admiration in America and Europe.

EUSTIS. A novel. By Robert Apthorp Boit. 1 vol. 12mo. Price, $1.50.

A southern love story and an admirable one, giving striking hints of the state of feeling lingering yet in the south, with a brilliancy of local coloring, and a complexity of plot, that furnish material ample and well worked out to constitute "Eustis" a most original and interesting novel.

HENRY IRVING'S IMPRESSIONS OF AMERICA. Narrated in a series of sketches, chronicles, and conversations. By Joseph Hatton. 1 vol. 12mo. Price, $1.50.

TINKLING CYMBALS. By Edgar Fawcett, author of "A Gentleman of Leisure," etc. 1 vol. 12mo. Price, $1.50.

A brilliant novel of New York in the nineteenth century, by one of its closest and most observant students, which, during its serial publication, has attracted very general attention and met with great commendation for its vigor, intensity and spirit.

THE BATTLE OF STONE'S RIVER. Near Murfreesboro, Tenn., December 30, 1862, to January 3, 1863. By Alexander F. Stevenson. 1 vol. 8vo. With maps and plans. Price, $3.00.

A minute and detailed account of one of the most sanguinary and prolonged battles of the civil war, which has hitherto been too little understood. The battle [illegible] confronted each other in Tenn. [illegible] set forth with picturesque martial vigor.

We call attention to the advertisement of W R Collins & Co in this issue of the GAZETTE This is a progressive firm They have reduced the prices of many of the luxuries and staples used in every family to such an extent that they can now be obtained here at about as low prices as those which rule in the markets of the east.

Mr. W. Griffith, assistant superintendent of the Pacific express company, was in the city to-day and made a transfer of that company's business from the Denver & Rio Grande express company to Mr. John F. Pearce, an old and tried agent of the company, late of Longmont, who will have the office of the company in Bacon & Carr's office. These gentlemen will do the transferring for the Pacific.

One of the most pleasing musical events that has taken place in Colorado Springs for some time, was the concert given by the Nashville Students at the First M. E. church last night. The church was nearly filled and the programme, consisting of solos, quartets, jubilee and plantation songs, was a very taking one and well received The singers all possess cultivated voices, and their melodies were, without exception, well rendered. The only criticism that can be made is, that the programme was considerably cut, thus making it rather short. In the jubilee and plantation selections there was not that action anticipated, perhaps owing to overtraining

The Irving Institute will present the following programme at its second annual exhibition in the college chapel at 7 45 o'clock this evening

Invocation		Rev James B Gregg
Piano Solo		Miss Irene Barnes
Oration	"Edmund Burke"	J. D Ellsworth.
Essay	"Our Literary Society"	Fred H Meserve
